

Application for a Duplicate Citizenship Certificate

UK Visas and Immigration do not retain records of grants of citizenship prior to October 1986. Before applying for a duplicate certificate you should ensure that it was originally issued after that date.

Certificates of citizenship are valuable documents and should be looked after. They will not be accepted as evidence of citizenship for the issue of passports if they have been defaced in any way. This includes lamination in plastic covers.

If you are British through an automatic claim to British citizenship rather than through an application for naturalisation or registration, you should apply for a British passport.
